

Persuasive Writer

DIRECTIONS:

Mark the sentences below that are correct for your persuasive sentences.

For each rubric category, check whether you are either a “great” or “beginner” persuasive writer.

You should only have five checkmarks total when you are done.

In the large box on the right, check one box to indicate which writer you are.

With practice you can become a “great” persuasive writer.

Great Persuasive Writer

- Came up with five reasons to support your argument.
- All five reasons supported your argument.
- Selected three and most convincing reasons for your argument.
- Dictated complete sentences for your reasons.
- Copied your reason sentences with correct punctuation and spelling.

Beginning Persuasive Writer

- Came up with fewer than five reasons to support your argument.
- Not all five reasons supported your argument.
- Selected three but not the most convincing reasons for your argument.
- Dictated incomplete sentences for your reasons.
- Copied your reason sentences with incorrect punctuation and spelling.
